

GREEK MYTHOLOGY

Dr. Alexia Zotou
June 9-29, 2025

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course surveys the central stories, gods, and heroes of Greek myth. We will read and analyze the ancient literary sources, interpreting them in their cultural context. Besides providing an overview of Greek myth, this course is designed to take advantage of its Athenian setting. For example, since we tour the Athenian Acropolis and Agora, we will study the myths and legends that took place in those locations or were depicted on temples there. Soon after we visit the ancient theater of Dionysus, we will study myths related to Dionysus. We will read some of the most interesting literary works of the ancient world, while becoming immersed in their material and social context.

FIELD STUDY

Field study includes visits to archaeological sites and museums in Athens and beyond, including the Acropolis, the Athenian Agora, the Pnyx, the Kerameikos, the National Archaeological Museum, the Theater of Dionysus, as well as day trips to Sounion, Eleusis, Mycenae and Delphi.

A detailed list of the sites we visit and further activities will be provided to all participants prior to the beginning of the course.
